on Defects in the Arizona Revised Statutes and State Constitution

FIFTY-FIRST LEGISLATURE
SECOND REGULAR SESSION

September 2014

ARIZONA LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

INTRODUCTION

This is the fortieth formal report on defects in the Constitution and laws of Arizona issued by the Arizona Legislative Council in compliance with section 41-1304.01, Arizona Revised Statutes. This report notes various problem provisions in Arizona statutory and constitutional sections.

Section III of this report indicates suggested technical changes or areas to be reviewed in preparing statutory sections for proposed legislation. These issues may require policy direction or additional information from the requesting legislator in order for Legislative Council staff to prepare legislation involving these statutes. But to the extent that staff can prepare and legislators can use the suggested technical changes in the statutes, the clarity and consistency of the statutory law can be greatly improved.

Section IV notes some technical inadequacies in the state constitution. However, these suggestions are brief since any proposal to repeal or rewrite constitution text requires the submission of a proposition to the voters and should be cautiously conducted. Since technical changes may make a ballot proposition more confusing, care should be taken in evaluating a proposed improvement against its possible impact on the substance of the proposition.

I. STATUTORY CODIFICATION

The Arizona Revised Statutes developed through the bulk revision of all general laws of the state under the Arizona Code Commission as authorized by the Arizona Legislature in 1951. The recodification was enacted in Laws 1955, Third Special Session, chapter 3. A twenty-volume set containing the Constitutions of the United States and Arizona, laws, court rules, tables and indexing was prepared under authority of Laws 1956, chapter 129 and included legislation enacted through the Twenty-second Legislature, Second Regular Session.

The Arizona Revised Statutes contains over twenty-two thousand separate sections of statutory law as organized into forty-nine titles. The titles are broad principal subjects that are arranged in alphabetical order except for title 1 (general provisions), title 14 (trusts, estates and protective proceedings), title 28 (transportation), title 47 (uniform commercial code), title 48 (special taxing districts) and title 49 (the environment). As appropriate, the titles are divided into chapters and subdivided into articles grouping the several sections by related subject matter.

The several titles of the Arizona Revised Statutes have not developed with uniformity in the years since they were first codified due to varied amendment activity, the addition and repeal of laws and the bulk transfers of material through departmental reorganization legislation. Statutory sections reflect a range of a dozen to eight hundred or more sections of law in the several titles of the Arizona Revised Statutes.

Provision is made in the bound Arizona Revised Statutes volumes for annual pocket parts to supplement the original code material and for annotations to reflect more recent legislative and judicial statements. Because of the bulk of supplemental material in some of the volumes of the Arizona Revised Statutes, the publisher was forced to begin to recompile statutes and annotations by reprinting. Numerous volumes have been republished since the first such project was undertaken in 1970.

In 1972, the Legislative Council reviewed this situation and established with the publisher a continuing program for the replacement of the hardbound volumes of the Arizona Revised Statutes. It was agreed that designated volumes would be selected and, as appropriate, the material divided before republication to make provision for future growth. This decision to authorize scheduled republication, as well as ongoing statute revision, avoids costly multiyear bulk statutory revision projects.

The current hardbound set of Arizona Revised Statutes materials consists of the following:

II. STATUTORY REVISION AND IMPROVEMENT

To maintain the quality of the Arizona Revised Statutes, the Legislature has granted continuing revision authority to the Arizona Legislative Council. As necessary, certain problems with section headings, typographical errors and multiple amendment and placement difficulties in newly enacted laws may be corrected under this revision authority.

Revision Authority

Minor irregularities in the statutes frequently result from an incomplete rewrite of the law or a hasty amendment. Under the revision authority of sections 41-1304.01 and 41-1304.02, Arizona Revised Statutes, the Legislative Council staff, in preparing new enactments for Arizona Revised Statutes publication, may renumber and rearrange newly enacted text material, make certain word substitutions and correct clerical, typographical and electronic database errors. The procedure used by the Legislative Council to revise each session's enactments is briefly described in the following paragraphs.

During each legislative session, Legislative Council receives copies of each enacted bill, or chapter. Legislative Council staff enters in the computer each A.R.S. section affected by that chapter, notes whether the section is added, repealed, amended, transferred or renumbered, or both, and notes the effective date of the activity or whether it is conditional. This information becomes the Table of Sections Affected.

The Table of Sections Affected has several uses. It identifies sections with duplicate numbers, sections that are amended more than once and sections that have been both amended and repealed by different chapters. It is also useful in checking publication of the A.R.S. material in the supplements and pocket parts or in the republished volumes to ensure the completeness and accuracy of published material and in checking the accuracy of the publisher's list of sections affected.

Legislative Council staff reads each chapter as it is received and notes apparent errors, while keeping in mind restrictive revision guidelines. Often a bill drafter finds an error in an act occasioned by amendment of a bill that he or she drafted originally. Separate staff readings of chapters is necessary because it is difficult for one reader to simultaneously locate all of the various errors in sense, typing and form when reading more than 1,000 pages of text in a rather brief time. Furthermore, the new chapters must be code-checked, or proofread against current law, because corrections in existing law are not made by way of revision authority.

Each section of a chapter must be analyzed for impact on the present statutes. A one-line repeal of a single article may result in the repeal of twenty sections contained in that article, any one or several of which may conceivably be amended by another chapter. Any error that exists in a current statute and that is unchanged in the new statute is noted for possible reference in Section III of this report but is left unchanged.

For newly enacted text, an administrative correction or recommendation for correction is not made if determining what was meant involves a possible substantive choice or if there is a misspelled or incorrect choice of a word that cannot be corrected without a substantive decision. Punctuation is not corrected unless it can be accomplished without any possibility of changing the intent.

The staff meets after chapters have been read to discuss the errors found and, if these are characterized as proper for administrative correction, to agree on the form and substance of reviser's notes for each. The revised chapters and notes are then sent to West, a Thomson Reuters business, for use in the preparation of pocket part and softbound statute materials for the ensuing year and to LexisNexis for softbound publication.

In reviewing the chapters the staff may conclude that a section that has been added, amended or repealed may be potentially defective due to a violation of the Constitution of Arizona. This may occur when the amendment of the section is not identified in the title for the chapter or an incorrect version is used in amending a section. These sections are noted for inclusion in the reviser's technical corrections bill, discussed on page 8.

Blending Authority

After each legislative session adjourns and Legislative Council staff has reviewed all chapters, the staff prepares blends of multiple legislative activity under authority of section 41-1304.03, Arizona Revised Statutes. Blending authority is necessary because enactments of a session are deemed simultaneous and to be construed together to the extent that they are not incompatible.

In each blend proposal the two or more chapters involved must appear to be free of constitutional defect and be substantively compatible with each other. Multiple sections that cannot be blended involve sections in which one version has a delayed effective date, the versions are inconsistent or incompatible, one or more versions have constitutional defects or one version is approved as an emergency act while the Legislature is in session and the subsequent version is amended without including the amendments made by the emergency act. For each blend West, a Thomson Reuters business, is instructed to indicate the involved chapter versions in the source note and to include a reviser's note explanation of the blend.

In the Laws 2014 enactments, 78 multiple amendment situations were blended. They involved the following A.R.S. sections and chapters:

- |    |          |  |

Reviser's Technical Corrections Bill

Each year, the Legislative Council staff prepares the reviser's technical corrections bill to correct multiple, defective and inconsistent enactments from the previous session. Such enactment irregularities include defective titles, effective date problems, incorrect versions and other issues that violate the Arizona Constitution. The reviser's technical corrections bill for 2014 was House Bill 2522, passed as Laws 2014, chapter 211.

Many additional but less serious problem sections that are not included in the reviser's technical corrections bill are either described or recommended for specific improvement in Section III of this report. The identification of statute errors or inadequacies is in itself valuable, as bill drafters and others can use the suggested improvements in preparing substantive changes for the noted problem sections. While some of these examples may seem too trivial for legislative attention there is, unfortunately, no other method for their correction.

Additionally, the staff may submit memos to provide information to the Legislative Council regarding other enactment irregularities. Such items, while suitable for correction only through the enactment of further legislation, are those deemed to be of sufficient importance to require an evaluation and explanation before inclusion in future legislative correction or improvement proposals.

If the hundreds of administrative or revision corrections and Legislative Council blends and corrections were not made, these problems could be addressed only by their consideration in bills before the full Legislature. The success rate of these legislative proposals in this and most states has not been notable, since it is quite difficult for these technical matters to compete for attention and support with the crucial substantive issues before each Legislature.

III. RECOMMENDED STATUTORY IMPROVEMENTS

The following statutory provisions contain defects, inconsistencies or form and style problems of which legislative staff should be aware. Please note that less significant drafting errors, such as the misuse of future tense instead of present tense or passive voice instead of active voice and use of a negative subject, are not usually incorporated in this listing. It is intended instead that in any amendment of a section drafters will seek to improve that text to the extent acceptable to the bill sponsor.

1-215 (2013)

In paragraph 17, after "(a)" insert "MEANS". (Grammar.)

1-243

Transfer this section to title 1, chapter 2, article 2. (Correct placement.)

1-304

In subsection B, after "culture" insert a comma. (Grammar.)

3-113

In subsection A, strike the first comma and insert "OR". (Grammar.)

3-121

In subsection B, after "The" insert "ARIZONA" and strike "of the universities and state college of Arizona". (Correct name.)

3-123

In the second sentence, after the second "the" insert "ARIZONA" and strike "of the universities and state college of Arizona". (Correct name.)

3-141

In paragraph 1, subdivision (b), item (v), "fertilizer" is not defined in section 3-262. Should it be "fertilizer material"?

3-202

After "things" insert "THAT ARE", strike "which" and insert "THAT" and strike "is" and insert "ARE". (Grammar.)

3-212

In subsection B, strike "coddling" and insert "CODLING". (Spelling.)

3-264

In subsection B, paragraph 4, after "fertilizers" insert "SUCH". (Grammar.)

3-272

In subsection C, second sentence, should "licenses" be "REGISTRATIONS" to conform to other references in that subsection? In the fourth sentence, before "opportunity" insert "AN" and before "hearing" insert "A". (Grammar.)

3-283

In subsection A, paragraph 3 does not follow the lead-in.

3-365 (2012)

In subsection A, after the third comma insert "A". (Grammar.)

3-373 (2008)

In paragraph 7, subdivision (a), strike "federal" and insert "UNITED STATES". (Correct name.)

3-415 (L11, Ch. 77, sec. 10 & L11, Ch. 281, sec. 12) (2011)

These two versions conflict. If section 3-415 is amended, both versions of the section should be addressed in legislation and the end result should be one version of the statute.

3-458

In subsection C, first sentence, strike "were" and insert "WAS". (Grammar.)

In subsection D, first sentence, strike "enter" and insert "ENTERS". (Grammar.)

In subsection E, strike the second comma and insert "OR". (Grammar.)

3-459

In subsection B, strike "are" and insert "IS". (Grammar.)

3-499

In subsection A, paragraph 2, strike "such" and insert "COOPERATIVE". (Clarification.)

3-561 (2008)

Alphabetize the definitions. (Style consistency.)

3-587

In subsection A, second sentence, after "by" insert "A MAJORITY OF". (Clarification.)

3-601.01

In subsection A, paragraphs 1 through 8, strike "title" and in paragraphs 7 and 8, strike "United States Code" and insert "CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS". (Correct citation.)

3-606 (2007)

In subsection C, sixth sentence, strike the comma and insert "AND" (grammar) and strike "type style" and insert "TYPESTYLE" (spelling).

3-609 (2012)

In the section heading, remove "; definition". (Conformity.)

3-620

In subsection A, strike the second comma and insert "OR". (Grammar.)

3-625

In subsections A and B, in four places, strike "pure". (Correct terminology.)

3-661

In paragraph 5, strike the semicolon and insert "AND". (Grammar.)

3-717 (2011)

In subsection A, first sentence, strike "that" and insert ", WHICH". (Grammar.)

3-730

In subsection B, first sentence, after "dealer" strike the comma and insert "OR". (Grammar.) In the second sentence, strike "remark" and insert "RE-MARK". (Spelling.)

In subsection C, second sentence, strike "remarked" and insert "RE-MARKED". (Spelling.)

3-734

Strike "its" and insert "THEIR". (Grammar.)

3-738

In subsection A, in two places, strike "shell". (Correct terminology.)

3-903 (2013)

In subsection B, paragraph 1, strike "federal". (Correct name.)

IV. CONSTITUTIONAL DEFECTS

The state constitution should proclaim the legal framework of statute and case law through concise, understandable and compatible provisions. However, because the constitutional amendment process requires a vote of the people, many provisions of the text of the Arizona Constitution remain outdated or inconsistent. Since only an initiative, referendum or constitutional convention can address such problems, many items of possible improvement remain. One such area is the inconsistent use of article, part, section and paragraph designations.

Other suggested improvements are:

Article II, section 34. This section does not authorize "industrial pursuits" by counties but A.R.S. section 11-281 does.

Article IV, part 1, section 1. Subsection (3) prevents the legislature from authorizing anything except emergency or general effective dates (except for appropriations). If provision were made to direct the effective date of emergency legislation, the legislature could address problems involving time factors such as implementing provisions on July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year.

Article IV, part 2, section 4. Strike the reference to "postmaster of the fourth class", which was removed as a postal service designation in 1970 pursuant to 39 United States Code section 702.

Article IV, part 2, section 19. In paragraph (1), strike "divorces" and insert "ANNULMENTS OR DISSOLUTIONS OF MARRIAGE" and in paragraph (7) strike "crimes and misdemeanors" and insert "CRIMINAL OFFENSES".

Article IV, part 2, section 21. Strike the first sentence and rewrite the second sentence to state "THE TERMS OF OFFICE OF THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE ARE TWO YEARS."

Article IV, part 2, section 23. Strike "from any railroad or other corporation".

Article VI, section 14. In paragraph (9), strike "Divorce and for" and after "annulment" insert "AND DISSOLUTION".

Article VII, section 6. Strike "soldier, seaman, or marine, in the army or navy" and insert "MILITARY PERSONNEL".

Article VIII, part 1, section 6. This section requires the legislature to enact certain provisions relating to paying a recalled officer's campaign expenses. The statutory section was repealed in 1973.

Article IX, section 3. In the last sentence, strike the provision requiring payment of taxes "in money only".

Article IX, section 5. This section, imposing a three hundred fifty thousand dollar state debt ceiling, has been interpreted with so many exceptions that a revision may be appropriate.

Article IX, section 11. In four places, strike "From and after December 31, 1973,".

Article IX, section 15. Strike "Commencing January 1, 1965,".

Article IX, section 16. Strike "Commencing January 1, 1967,".
