

Fiscal Note

BILL # HB 2374

TITLE: transnational repression; foreign adversaries

SPONSOR: Nguyen

STATUS: As Amended by House JUD

PREPARED BY: Jordan Johnston

REVISED

Explanation of Revision

We have revised our analysis to include the Department of Public Safety's estimate of the bill's fiscal impact.

Description

The bill would enhance penalties for persons convicted of certain crimes if the person is a foreign government agent or a foreign terrorist organization agent. The bill also establishes a class 2 felony for any person acting as a foreign agent that intentionally engages in law enforcement activities. The bill further requires the Department of Public Safety (DPS) to establish a Transnational Repression Recognition and Response Training program to offer law enforcement specialized training on recognizing foreign agents.

Estimated Impact

We estimate the bill could increase the Arizona Department of Corrections' (ADC) operating costs if individuals convicted under the enhanced or new sentencing requirements spend more time in prison than currently required by law. However, any cost to the department will ultimately depend on whether a foreign agent convicted of these crimes would be charged in a federal court and housed in a federal prison or charged in a state court and housed in an Arizona correctional facility.

DPS estimates the bill will cost the department $250,000 one-time in FY 2026, and $100,000 ongoing to establish and maintain a Transnational Repression Recognition and Response Training program.

Analysis

Due to insufficient data, we are unable to estimate the number of foreign agents that currently are charged with crimes in the state of Arizona. As such, we are unable to determine the fiscal impact of enhancing penalties and establishing a new penalty for these crimes.

The bill also requires DPS to establish a Transnational Repression Recognition and Response Training program and contract with an organization that has experience in developing and implementing such training to create the curriculum. The department is then required to oversee the selection and certification of participants and update the program annually as necessary to address new emerging threats/tactics used by foreign governments.
